Are you working on purpose? Does the law, as it exists in your life now, fulfill your purpose? How do you know? Many of us choose law to make a difference, but sometimes we fail to find the critical connection between who we are and what we do. Does our work align with our values, our talents and our passions? Discovering our purpose and the search for meaning in life is a “cradle to grave” process.

Based on over 20 years of research and practice, the Working on Purpose™ Workshop is designed for people who want to reflect on their place and their purpose. This three-hour program, adapted just for lawyers, will provide you with the tools to clarify your life direction and to move forward with confidence and motivation.

Topics to be covered: Revisit your purpose in becoming a lawyer. · Working on purpose—Aligning our values, talents and passions in our work as lawyers. · Identity and Calling—How to define what we are best at inside and outside the law. · Passion in our work and life – defining and pursuing our view of making a difference in our professional and personal life. · Purpose: Creating a purpose statement to serve yourself, your clients, and your community. · Community—connecting our purpose with our legal and larger community; legal and broader ethical issues related to pro bono work.

In this interactive workshop you will have the opportunity to reflect and prepare for the next phase of your career and your life.

This workshop will be facilitated by Bob Burns, a lawyer for over 30 years. Mr. Burns is past president of the National Board of Trial Advocacy, past president of the South Dakota Trial Lawyers Association, and South Dakota Trial Lawyer of the Year in 1992. He is one of the professionals trained by the Purpose Project. The Purpose Project is a collaboration between the Center for Spirituality and Healing at the University of Minnesota and Richard Leider, founder of the Inventure Group of Minneapolis, who has been named by Forbes magazine as one of the world's top life coaches.
